

Connie Smith, I'd Still Want To Serve Him Today

If there were no hope beyond awfully shadows and all things eternal disappeared
If God should ordain that heaven must vanish and there'd be no mansions up there
If Christ should never appear in the clouds to catch his children away
If each holy promise were canceled oh I'd still want to serve him today
For I was nothing when Jesus touched me heartache and sorrow fill this house of clay
But He gave me joy that the world can't destroy
Gave meaning to my life that had fallen away
So if I looked forward and saw no reward no hope beyond death and the grave
He's already given my soul enough heaven that I'd still want to serve him today
He's already given my soul enough heaven I'm still gonna serve him today
