

Connie Smith, Will The Real Me Please Stop Crying

Will the real me please stop crying and let me let me forget
There are three faces that I wear the first says I don't care
The second one knows he's lying
The third one hide the heart that's been broken all apart
Will the real me please stop crying
Will the real me please stop crying lonely lonely tears of regret
Will the real me please stop crying and let me let me forget
[ steel ]
All three faces belong to me but there's one that no one sees
All of them know his love's dying
Two of them want to lie but the other just wants to cry
Will the real me please stop crying
Will the real me please stop crying...