

Constantines, Time Can Be Overcome

now, architect
now, archeologist
now a man whose hand's in the past somebody's made to face the changes somebody's built to last what do you know
still living so young
tomorrow's no burden
time can be overcome
time can be overcome

no need yet to caution
no need for amen
yesterday'll break your heart tomorrow'll kill you dead hounding history
time can be overcome
all real and familiar things undone

chisel and hammer
raise the ruined architecture i will love and understand her

what do you know?
still living so young
tomorrow is no burden
time can be overcome
time can be overcome

time can be overcome