

Continental Drifters, (Down By The) Great Mistake

He: I never felt so close to you.

She: I never been so far away.

He: And I know what you're going through...

She: So is that all you can say to me? Is that all you can say to me?

He: I used to know you when.

She: But you turned your back on me.

He: I just got turned around myself...

She: Then what do you expect of me? Just what do you expect of me?

They: It's a crazy world we live in,

It's a crazy road we take.

We could walk this way blindfolded, down by the Great Mistake.

She: You used to be my hero, boy, 'til you parked the car in the lake.

He: That wasn't strictly my idea, you know. I parked down by the Great Mistake.

She: You should've used your emergency brake.

They: There'll be a lot of compromisin',

And if that don't sound enticing,

Your money ain't no good here, down by the Great Mistake.

He: I think it's gonna work out just fine.

She: You can think that way if you like.

He: What would make you say a thing like that?

She: I'm not sayin' anything. I'm not sayin' anything.

They: There'll be a lot of compromisin',

And if that don't sound inviting,

We can walk this way blindfolded, down by the Great Mistake.
