

Craig Cardiff, Pushed

this is the song i wrote after i heard about the accident i wasn't sure if i should come by all our angry words didn't hold much water in the face of all your pain

a night with ani difranco the rheostatics pierre trudeau
a few beers should fix us up just right i'm feeling colder than i have ever felt in the short span of my life i pushed you, you pushed farther i pushed you, you pushed farther i pushed you, you pushed me away maybe we'll always be angry maybe we'll talk when we're eighty if you make it and say none of this ever really mattered now that we figured out what matters more

a night with ani difranco the rheostatics pierre trudeau
a few beers should fix us up just right
i'm feeling colder than i have ever felt
in the short span of my life

i pushed you, you pushed farther i pushed you, you pushed farther
i pushed you, you pushed me away