

Cranes, Driving In The Sun

We would go driving in the sun
Into a world where we were one
We'd close our eyes and we'd become
As free as the sun and moon that shone
And even when our love has gone
And time has moved us all along
And even when the shades have passed
And what we made has gone at last Something goes on and on and on . . .
And though I know that things won't change
I remember all of our days
Beautiful in many ways . . .
Guess I was searching for someone
I guess I thought you were the one
Cos I so wanted to belong
But now I know that I was wrong
But I believe that there was love
That fell between the two of us
And I believe the time we had
Was meant to be, but not to last . . .
And though I know that things won't change
I remember all our days
Beautiful in many ways . . .
