

Crash Poets, Goodbye

I turned left - but you turned right only one-way roads on this stretch of life we can't back up or turn back time out of sight - not out of mind
you made a choice
so wave goodbye
I'm not turning back.

I think about you everyday (goodbye)
On ragged roads to better days (goodbye)
I see your picture in my head (goodbye)
I think I'll miss you
But you'll never see me again

Your letter said - You found your place
Somewhere else, with another face
Written words like razor blades
Slashing all my hope away
I'd bleed to death from paper cuts
But the road is calling me

I think about you everyday (goodbye)
On ragged roads to better days (goodbye)
I see your picture in my head (goodbye)
I think I'll miss you
But you'll never see me again

Now sorry is as sorry does like tire tracks on hearts we crushed like dried up flowers in the dust
Do you still miss me?
I'm a tragic highway burning soul and driving like this takes it's toll
How could I have ever known?
Still my wheels, they keep turning on

I think about you everyday (goodbye)
On ragged roads to better days (goodbye)
I see your picture in my head (goodbye)
I think I'll miss you
But you'll never see me again
