

Crashdog, Helpless?

You told me about your broken life
What did you want me to think?
We shared the same cup all along
You call it poison
I call it life
Remember when we stood together?
Now you say you were never there
Were you someone else to me?
Was I someone else to you?

Helpless?
These things made you what you are now?
I don't buy that
Didn't you make your own choice?

All of the people that you respected
All of your friends that used to be
Now they are the ones to blame
No one lasts on your pedestal
Look in the mirror and ask yourself
Why does it always go this way?
Better yet forget yourself
Measure the truth by something else

Psalm 55:12-14

I really wish you the very best
I'll not hope for your demise
But all you'll reap is bitterness
In the cult of the victimized
For you we failed so hopelessly
So live your life and let us be
Forgiveness is where freedom lies
Forgiveness is where freedom lies