

Crass, Bumhooler

chorus: if they drop a bomb on us, we fucking deserve it we know we got it coming, we fucking deserve it they got a comfy set up, they?ll try and preserve it we had the early warning, we can sit and observe it.

sliding down guidelines, cradle to the grave all the willing saviours see that we behave everybody knows they?re there, see them all around lots of little people who?ll put you in the ground well, take a burning issue and stuff it up your arse they?ve fucked you with a furrowed brow, shitting broken class marching down the ?dilly to demonstrate again while the men who plan the holocaust are pissed out of their brains brain of pasty people, who?ll bomb it all to fuck you can be a victim or they?ll let you try your luck pass it on to others, ship it down the line leave your world in ruins, you know we?ve got the time chorus

cop-outs for motives...freudian analyst, come on mr. horror, what do you make of this?
wont? find many people without their rationale any handy concept to hang upon the wall soldier got his enemy police have got the state family have got home sweet home SS got red tape MP?s got his duty priest has got his sin everybody finds a hole to drop somebody in seeking out wisdom in the ironies of life weighing up subtleties, fiddling with the ties no-one else decides for you, whether to or not you make an easy target if you?re running on the spot

someone?s been training, flexing their muscles getting in practice, irrelevant tussles given a march, or a quiet sunday demo they wait till the state puts the finger on you peeping through a frown, your humanity in rags playing the loser till the sense of purpose sags they can deal with heroes, watch the bleeders run it?s only your head keeps the target from the gun no-one else decides for you, whether to or not you make an easy target if you?re running on the spot...
