Crest, Frozen Garden

this is where it ends when you find my secret hideout the chapel for my memories did you know when I was just a child I thought this was the whole world four walls of fading lullabies please don't step inside this ground is far too sacred a totem to identify did you know this is all that's left and this is all I am do you hear the fading lullaby

and I feel unreal

two letter on a box it always made me shiver the artifacts and broken dolls did you know I always thought that one could play the game for two the labyrinth looks smaller now

and I feel unreal