Crest, Silent

Slow-mo fantasy, black and white slides all around us. A blood-stained rubber duck, I really shouldn't siwm these waters. Lethal undertow, caught in this web you have spun. A claw-marked basement door, I really shouldn't be here alone.

(chorus)
Everything falls when I think of you.
Demons whisper like lovers do.
A world of fear blends with everything I love.

A tall grey silhouette towering as I grow smaller. I leave all fear behind, take comfort in this silent lover.

(chorus)

My heart in my throat and seven steps. A concrete floor and voices around me. Beating heart and fragile stairs. Concrete walls and darkness surrounds me.

A blood-stained rubber duck, I really shouldn't swim these waters.

(chorus)

(chorus)