

Crosby & Nash, Half Your Angels

written by Graham Nash somewhere in heaven wings are taking flight flying over a worldly weight of hatred hanging over a building in the rain you got to heaven blown across the sky crying out for the angels to help you to rise up out of the ashes and the flames

send me half your angels
we're running out of time
send me half your angels
I'll send you half of mine hope they get there in time and far below your heaven hearts are wondering why why would anyone hurt gods children? how could anyone harm them at all?

send me half your angels
I'll send you half of mine

and while you're in heaven sleeping on the wind ask your heart to forgive this evil ask your soul to forgive us all

send me half your angels
I'll send you half of mine

I'll send you half of mine
hope they got there in time half your angels , goodbye
