

Crosse Clay, Consider The Choices

Dan Muckala

This time she'd drawn a line that he was never meant to cross

But he convinced her to lay down her love at any cost

After all, for all she knew - he would promise tomorrow

A crucial turning point in time and space and history

Now why she can't forget it seems to be a mystery

Well you know how the story goes, and the heartache that followed

Chorus:

You need to know there is a road for you

And not just for tomorrow, but your whole life through

You need to know with every step you take

Consider the choices you make

He took the money to a place no watchful eye could see

So sure they'd never find the records that would charge him as the guilty one

For all he'd done, for all he'd done

Repeat chorus

(C)1997 McSpadden-Smith Music (SESAC)

Drums: Dan Needham

Guitars: George Cocchini, Jerry McPherson

Keyboards: Mark Heimermann

Percussion: Terry MacMillan

B-3: Phil Madeira

BGVs: Judson Spence, Mark Heimermann