Crystal Kay, Eternal Memories

&quot;gotta find myself, gotta find myself,
I know it's not that easy but I'll try,
gotta find myself, gotta find myself...&quot;
&quot;gotta find myself, gotta find myself,
I know it's not that easy but I'll try,
gotta find myself, gotta find myself...&quot;

I will go and try, to find what's in my self
I need to find the way, to find what's in my self
I know it's not that easy but I'll try

&lt;lyrics&gt;
I'm sure that everyone has somewhere in their heart that has passed by &amp; they remember everything

The clouds flying in the sky, the wind blowing on the grass
The rain that falls on the flowers--I forgot them...
The dream in the morning, the repeating dream
The distant hometown, the sound of the wind

I remember that I had a small fight with my mom
I want to see her face, I want her to hold me
I hold my knees &amp; fall asleep in the dark room
While I listened for the sound of keys opening the door

&quot;gotta find myself, gotta find myself,
I know it's not that easy but I'll try,
gotta find myself, gotta find myself...&quot;
&quot;gotta find myself, gotta find myself,
I know it's not that easy but I'll try,
gotta find myself, gotta find myself...&quot;

I ran on the beach, looking at the rainbow
I listened to the waves that were rolling...
I leave home, fall in love
Believe me, believe...

Still, the memories revive me
The puzzles aren't solved, they still can't be seen
The sadness that goes on living takes the kindness away
Even the words get edgy &amp; I can't say the truth

I will go and try, to find what's in my self
I need to find the way, to find what's in my self
I know it's not that easy but I'll try

The clouds flying in the sky, the wind blowing on the grass
The rain that falls on the flowers--I forgot them...
I'm sure that everyone has somewhere in their heart that has passed by &amp; they remember everything
