

Crystal Lewis, Why

My thoughts they overwhelm me my mind cannot contain the pain that is within me
Why
I long for understanding I live to know the peace that comes with being sure of something

My eyes are blind to your ways oh Lord yet I've seen you love and care so

(Chorus)
I rest in your knowing though I may not know
I take on your strength as though it were my own Standing in the promises Your word for me provides
I find therein the answer to the question
Why

My complaint today is bitter but sweet is your reply
My questioning still lingers though Why You know each road I travel down My heart and yours are one I just don't see the good in all things

My eyes are blind to your ways oh, Lord and I've seen you love and care so

(Chorus)

Through suffering and sorrow come peace beyond belief
For our present set of circumstances serve only to remind us of the gold we can't yet see

(Chorus)
