Cyndi Lauper, If By Chance

It might just be too deep
We've turned your love into a hate
I can't wake you from this sleep
I can't lure you with this bait

And when you're all alone at night
I feel for you, I fight the fight
I need to know that where you go
Is real enough for me to know

And if by chance, I'd drown for you
Would you believe, at last it's true
That all my soul was yours to take
Would you believe I wasn't fake?

It might just be too late
We've turned your heart into a stone
I can't save you from this fate
I can't help you be alone

And if by chance, I'd drown for you
Would you believe, at last it's true
That all my soul was yours to take
Would you believe I wasn't fake?

Blood is thicker than water
That could be a bunch of lies
What makes me think I ought to Hold reins on all the ties

And if by chance, I'd drown for you
Would you believe, at last it's true
That all my soul was yours to take
Would you believe I wasn't fake?

And if by chance, I'd drown for you
Would you believe, at last it's true
That all my soul was yours to take
Would you believe I wasn't fake?
