

Dada, Dog

Painted old lady
Collecting splinters on the bench
She's waiting to go to heaven
One-eyed old man
With his party hat on
He swears there is no Hell, no Hell

I know a girl who believes
A girl who believes
She used to be a dog

Elevator rising
I wonder what's on the top floor
The numbers are on the wall (5... 6... 7... 8...)
The sun also rises
And the shadows soon fall
I keep looking to the sky, keep looking to the sky

I know a girl who believes
A girl who believes
She used to be a dog
oh, oh. oh. oh.

It don't matter what I say
'Cause no one is right
and no one is wrong
I guess that we'll find some day
That no one was right and no one was wrong

(solo)

I know a girl who believes
A girl who believes
She used to be a dog

I know a girl who believes (I know a girl)
Who believes
She used to be a dog

I know a girl, I know a girl
I know a girl, I know a girl
I know a girl, I know a girl
