Dada, Rise

I will pretend I feel your breath In the air floating Dragonflies and I hail to you

I will pretend I feel your touch When the rain falls I squeeze tightly And when it's gone I'm soaked by you, you

And I feel I could rise And I feel I could rise And I feel I could rise to you To you

I will remain one single fire When the lights go I will flicker Burn in the dark left by you, you

I will command your company Temper my mind, fix my vision I'll never lose the sight of you, you

And I feel I could rise And I feel I could rise And I feel I could rise to you To you Rise to you Rise to you

Don't want a sign, don't want religion Reach through the sky, feel you there Don't want my mind to make decisions Reach through the sky, feel you there (hoo)

And I feel I could rise And I feel I could rise to you To you Rise to you Oh, rise to you