

Dala, Fortress

and I will watch you disappear from my fortress over here and i will never understand every hearts a foreign land and i'm so afraid to
so afraid to
love you

and I will turn my eyes away from the harsh light of your day and I have slept through pouring rain it was all that kept me sane
and i'm so afraid to
so afraid to
love you

I can't tell where I've come from I can't tell that I'm so numb I'm dying for my city lights

You're dying from your country life
and i'm so afraid to
so afraid to

and i have drawn lines in the sand to remember where we stand and i'll build castles while you thirst they'll fall down
but you'll fall first
and i'm so afraid to
so afraid to
love you
love you
love you
