

Daniel Amos, Walls Of Doubt

There's that look in you eye
I know what you're thinking
It's just like the sixties to me
You paint it all black

It's alright
Run if you want to
But I see you coming through
Another wall of doubt

You hear that voice in your heart
You get that longing
It goes far beyond all the words
The great arguments

It's O.K.
Long for your lover
You'll find He's standing out
Beyond the walls of doubt

Love, love puts to rest
Some of the questions
Love, find it and see
The doubts will go fading away

All through the hours of the day
There's something strange growing
The seed of laughter and light
Way down inside you

It's alright
You can let go now
Love is the master's plow
Crash down the walls of doubt
