

Dante Thomas, Should Have Loved Her Then

She walked into the room all dressed in blue what am I to do he vowed to take her hand raise a family and promise to be true but she used to whisper to me by the river alone when the nights were so cold and he doesn't know that she still belongs to me so I cry from the ache in my heart cause I should have loved her then I should have loved her then.

she gazed into his eyes vision paralyze ohh if I could die they danced until the dawn on our favorite song I felt so alone
cause she used to whisper to me by the river
she still belongs to me
cause I should have loved her then
I should have loved her then.

God if there's a way I could turn the road tell her all the things I should have told I'd be there
I'd be a man I swear
I swear!
I should have loved her then
I should have loved her.....then
