

Dave Dudley, There You Are Again

About the time I put myself in fairly decent shape there you are again
About the time I go to bed and finally fall asleep there you are again
About the time that I stop seeing your face everywhere and I think that I may live again
When I think that I've forgot the color of your hair there you are again
I stay busy to forget that I was once a love of yours
And I hope that I can be the same old way I used to be before you came along
About the time I think that I can put you from my mind
Without you the world won't end
About the time I start to smile and think I'm feeling fine there you are again
[violin]
About the time I think that I can put you from my mind...
There you are again
