

David Fonseca, Come Into My Heart

I'll lit the fire, lit the fire tonight
I see your body by the trembling light,
I see light, I see
Let's have our fancy clothes out of the way
I see a halo but I can't see the face Through the haze, through the

You spit this spark that lights this fuse that burns and leads inside into
This heart like red like white, like dead live love a place
A place that you'll call home,
So come

Come into my heart
Love it, make it start
Come into my heart
Love it, rip it apart

I'll lit the fire, lit the fire tonight
There's mixed feelings but this fire feels right,
It feels right, it feels

We'll get our skinny bones out of the way
I've got this urge and this feeling can't wait, can't wait, it can't Your tongue it turns and water comes it through and fire, it burns inside of you

The words you said like poems, like led like bullets that melt
In the place that you'll call home
So come

Come into my heart
Love it, make it start
Come into my heart
Love it, rip it apart
Come into my heart
Shine above the stars

Enough for you, enough for two It's me for you, like tea for two

This heart ain't made of gold
It has no self control
Your love will get me through I'll give myself to you
I'll give my soul to you
I'll rip my heart in two