

David Gray, Holding You

Holding you

When you reach for me

in the middle of the night or in the wee hours of the morning

That is when i feel happiest

Because you are free

Because you are vulnerable

Nevertheless

you still reach out to me no time to analyze the situation no time to think about the pros and cons no contrivance

Just understanding what you want

what you need

You just want to be close to me because you know that i care ABOUT YOU

Want to feel the softness

the warmth

the tenderness

the intimacy

My heart fills with JOY

when you do this

SO spontaneously

so naturally

without thinking about any consequences

so spontaneously

SO naturally

without thinking about any consequences

because you feel safe with me

because you feel safe with me
It AWAKENS my mind raises it to a higher level So sincere and loving it means more to me than any words that you could say reach for me
When you are somewhere between night and morning between consciousness and sleep
reach for me
My heart will soar
because it's just you and me between the sheets
in the still of the night
No noise to distract No noise to stifle the heartfelt joy i will feel bursting inside me
when i hold you close to my heart
when i hold you close to my heart
in the still of the night

elizabeth