David Gray, Hospital Food

Just a little something for the pain Hospital food getting you down? Honey now I'm not one to complain But this hangin' around Is wearing me out

So patch me up boys take me home Are you not hearing a word I say? She sounds so different on the phone I just sink like a stone Back to the bay

Tell me something Tell me something I don't already know Tell me something Tell me something I don't know

Don't seem to have that much to show For all the hard work, the sweat and toil You say 'well that's right', and you should know You've been there before You've basked in the glow You've stood in the roar You've tasted the snow

Tell me something Tell me something I don't already know Tell me something Tell me something I don't already

Seeing it all so beautiful The way it oughta be Seeing it all so beautiful And turning away Turning away Turning away

Tell me something Tell me something I don't already know Tell me something Tell me something I don't already know
