De/Vision, Obsolete

The dragon heart For what has once been you there's nothing left now Got to bow down You're torn apart Seem to be here but yet you're fading away Silent decay

You've got to confess That your life is a mess From what I have told you From what I have said All that you let me see The worst for me to believe You came to go down with Nothing but defeat Cause you're obsolete

Role model for Another generation to take things on Disposable ones Running on repeat An empty tape distorted background noise A thrown-away toy

Bent nearly broke That's what they did to you but not anymore You are long gone and leave an emptiness That's hard to express