

Deacon Blue, Almost Beautiful

There is something almost right
There is something that really talks to me
There is something wrong but almost good
There is something that nearly terrifies

There is something more we can talk about
Maybe there is something we can change
If there are ways to go then let us
We don't want to live this always

Cry your heart
For something good you'd do it for
You try so hard
For something, almost beautiful

Far and distant from what you see is what is there
And that love there is something wonderful, wonderful
There's nowhere to go but here now
And nothing To find that isn't beautiful

And all that's lost you count as nought
To what is there so free so free
We don't wanna live this
This way are way no way no way no way I said

Cry your heart
For something good you'd do it for
You try so hard
For something almost beautiful.

Cry your heart
For something good you'd do it for
You try so hard
For something almost beautiful.
