

Deadlock, Spring Is Awoken

overslept astonished

whether you are ever going to feel this warmth again which makes us human create this bright new world cure the cancer of progress with even more progress it is the necessary evil half asleep you agree but the money makes you tired and in your dream the money adorns your cold driven heart but it is not your fault and the next spring will never awake

but it is not your fault

sleep well...