

Deadman, Down By The Winedale

you were protected but you weren't connected i was looking for you but you don't come by i see you're crying your tears they're all dry well maybe one day we'll correct that for one another down by the winedale i took you home hey we were fine till something went wrong i see blindness in your eyes and i can see what's trailing you down tonight so pour me a whisky 'cause i need a drink well the later i stay the drunker i get on faith
down by the winedale i took you home
i'm up in the morning about six forty five to unlock the doors for the drunks that come alive well i head to the jukebox to play the tower of song the music starts playing but not very long
well now that it's over i sure wish you could stay sure wish we could do like we'd planned from the very beginning
