

Dealership, Gee

It's time to go out and receive the court assembled for your viewing...

They look to you for love and beauty but you don't believe it...

Stop feeding egos with your understanding,
Stop kneeling everytime I utter anything.
The life of a prodigy is full of fluff and tragedy.

Until you bend
Until you crawl
Until you cry - you're still baroque

Until you beg
Until you fall
Until you lie - you're still baroque
Until you bleed. until you bleed...

Another day marks the dawn of your golden age
So what if it is not today
It just implies another way

Until you bend
Until you crawl
Until you cry - you're still baroque

Until you beg
Until you fall
Until you lie - you're still baroque

Until you think
Until you know
That you're the star - you're still baroque
Until you bleed. until you bleed...

You think that everyone is more than you...
But you're wrong it's just your point of view...

Great things are going to happen
but not until you stop having these adverse reactions.

(I think that I am so much more than you
You might be right, you have no follow through)

'Cause nothing ever happens
how you want.
Just believe that you're special...
And all the rest will follow,
relax!
'cause the details are just points along the path.

The microscope nourishes the decline...