

Dean Martin, If I Should Love Again

If I should love again
If I should love again
I'll give my love to nobody else but you
You've been so dear to me
You've made things clear to me
And I can see the wonderful dreams come true

When hearts are broken
And romance ends
One tender word of love is spoken and then it mends
So here's to love again
If I should love again
I'll give my love to nobody else but you

So here's to love again
If I should love again
I'll give my love to nobody else but you