

Dean Strickland, The Perfect Place

As the bright sunlight meets the horizon
And another fun night starts its beginning
And all the hard work we put in today comes to a closure
What do you say we go out and play before we get much older?

But let us not worry about age now
Let us write in our story a beautiful page about how

CHORUS:

There's love in the air
And everybody cares about each other
We're all sisters and brothers
That want to help one another

Money's okay
But if you have none with which to pay
Well, just come on anyway
'Cause where we're going is called the perfect place

When the sun comes up in the morning
All wars will be over
And there'll be peace in the Middle East
Always and forever

But let us not think this is merely a dream now
Let us write in our story a beautiful page about how
