Debbie Gibson, Call Yourself A Lover

VERSE1:

You have no idea what a woman wants What a woman needs
Don't go by what you hear
You won't find it in the books you read
Come on strong man
That's the wrong man for me
Have you no clue
What a real man's supposed to be

CHORUS:

So you call yourself a lover A romeo, a Cassanova Thinkin' that there is no other Well guess again Don't you think yourself attractive Your mind's a bit too overactive You don't know from any other So you call yourself a lover

VERSE2:

Once upon a time Maybe then some help, just what we needed

Wake up the world has changed I just need your touch some tlc I won't shrivel up and die without you The sooner the better you hear those words Ring aloud and true

BRIDGE:

They say romance
Is dead and gone, gone, gone
Don't you know it's love sweet love
That this girls world is built upon
A token to show
A tall tale to tell
Won't get you anywhere with me

CHORUS

A romeo, a Cassanova Thinkin' that there is no other
