

Deborah Cox, House is not a home

I walk through these halls but nothing feels the same
Where we once made our lives, its now so em