

Deborah Gibson, Jaded

When you hurt that deep
When the knife's that sharp
When the arrow's aimed right for your heart
When you trust enough to let him in
Then the games begin

When the stakes are just a bit too high
And danger is waiting to take away your innocence
It's not you, it's me
It's just

Chorus:
I'm jaded enough to keep up my defenses
I never thought this could happen to me
I'm a cynical girl,
Seeing life through lenses so I don't get hurt again
Jaded I am

I'm talking to myself how could it be
No one's ever made a fool of me
No one's had the power, held the key to open up that door
Then slam it in a blink, in a fatal twist
Turned inside out I live with this
Day in, day out
I must begin again
But

Chorus 2X

Bridge:
Trusting in no one is no way to go on
I know, I know, I know.
Someone tell my heart that bleeds on and on
How could I ever take a lover into my trembling arms
Oh

Chorus 2X
