

Deepest Blue, Shooting Star

Its a black and white picture
A smile from the past
That tattooed the moments we had
Like a treasured possession a gift from the gods
Everything is falling apart

You just dont care anymore
Youre just not there any more

You're a shooting star that fell without a trace
And you shot so far that your mind began to race
Whats the point in colour when your grey
'cos you're a shooting star that fell without the rain

I know that you're leaving and nothin stays the same Broken heart adventures mislaid numbed all my feelings
Take away the pain
The hour hand is stealing you away

You just dont care anymore
Youre just not there any more

You're a shooting star that fell without a trace
And you shot so far that your mind began to race
Whats the point in colour when your grey
'cos you're a shooting star that fell without the rain