Def Leppard, Kiss The Day

These are the days we throw away
The Words we never say
& amp; amp; quot; I'm so fragile, and so wrong amp; amp; quot;
And we're still knocking on the door
Of a world that's gone before
Until the real thing comes along

Kiss the day, on it's way
And the sun will never shine
In your eyes like the skies
And the darkness will arise
Kiss the day, and await
To hold you in it's arms
And the light will never fade
Kiss the day

And now I've seen enough to know Though the truth can leave you cold It can always lead you home Back to the place where we belong To the time when we were strong When we could blow away the storm

Kiss the day, on it's way
And the sun will never shine
In your eyes like the skies
And the darkness will arise
Kiss the day, and await
To hold you in it's arms
And the light will never fade
Kiss the day, kiss the day

These are the days we throw away The Words we never say Till the real thing comes along

Kiss the day, on it's way
And the sun will never shine
In your eyes like the skies
And the darkness will arise
Kiss the day, and await
To hold you in it's arms
And the light will never fade
Kiss the day