Del Reeves, How Long Has It Been

Saw you there on the barstool as I walked in And the look we gave each other said we both need a friend Is this the first time you've come here all the nights you've been alone Searching for something that just isn't at home

How long has it been when's the last time he kissed you My you sure look lovely in that dress so tight and thin There's a look in your eye that cries somebody love me And I wonder how long has it been

I sat down at your table we shared a drink or two All the things that first look told me now I find are really true Someone's neglect has left an emptiness where love used to be Then you reached out and touched my hand softly whispered to me

How long has it been when's the last time she held you And made you feel wanted and needed and loved There's a look in your eye that cries somebody love me And I wonder how long has it been
