

Del Reeves, I Woke Up

I woke up and the world was gone

You promised a new world you showed me
And made me believe it did exist
And now you pretend you don't know me
And you say that world was a mess

Then I woke up and the world was gone
And I never felt so all alone
It was cold and dark without a dawn
When I woke up and the world was gone

That world you promised you gave me
I was there each time that we kissed
And when your world had enslaved me
That world you promised went a mist

Then I woke up and the world was gone...
