

Del Reeves, If You Want Me To I'll Go

Well the rain just touched the flower in the meadow
But the rain alone won't make the flowers grow
I watch the flowers wither from my window
And so honey if you want me to I'll go

Cause it's true we've never had too much together
And the rain just wouldn't make our flowers grow
Oh but you just can't tell about the weather
So honey if you want me to I'll go

Just crawl in your bed and wrap the night around you
If you still think that what I've said ain't so
When the morning's come with all its truth and found you
Well honey if you still want me to I'll go

I know we've never had too much together
You've got the right to feel the way you do
No I won't say that things will get better
One thing I've never done is lie to you
So honey if you want me to I'll go
