Delain, Pristine

Once upon the dawn Day will break It begins on time Flowing while it's glowing It arrives on time

Subjected to origin Is to know that nothing Becomes of the contemptible Waiting for the dawn Hope to find I'Il cling to my pride

Clearest form Closest to pure perfection The essence yet unfolds itself The chain of strength it holds

Waiting for the dawn Hope to find I'II cling to my pride Reaching from the inside All I know, night must go

Open the dawn Behold the purest form The essence unfolds The chain of strength you held

As a distant dream I hover I call all the stars As a distant dream I hover Call all stars to fall for cover