

Demis Roussos, Someday Somewhere

Someday, somewhere, you said hello,
And walked into my life
Painted all my world in blue,
Made my life a dream come true

Someday, somewhere, I held your hand
And suddenly I knew that your love could show the way
to my rainbow's end

You gave my heart a song to sing
Shaved my wild imaginings
Time for us was sunshine neverending
Each morning was a melody
Simple words and harmony
And you are all my eyes could wish to see

Someday, somewhere, you said hello,
And walked into my life
Oh, so unexpectedly
Oh, so tenderly

Someday, somewhere, I held your hand
And suddenly I knew
That your love could show the way
To my rainbow's end

You gave my heart a song to sing
Shaved my wild imaginings
Time for us was sunshine neverending
Each morning was a melody
Simple words and harmony
And you are all my eyes could wish to see

Someday, somewhere our song went by
And after standing there
Silently you walked and wave
Leaving me with yesterday

Someday, somewhere we'll meet again
And we'll pretend again
Trying to convince ourselves
Our love was just a game

A game...
