

Denai Moore, Elsewhere

Same room, same bed
I lost countless hours
Of staring out my window
I let the rain pour in
And I look at myself
I look at myself
The same way that I used to
My mind is wearing thin,
Thin, thin, thin, thin

And my mind's the only thing
That's touched my skin
When summer burned me
/2x

Am I the 25th hour?
Am I the 25th hour of the day?
I'm going childish inside my head
And I can taste this liquor
Underneath my breath
And I can't shake this feeling
All I need is my trust
All this went too far
I can't find my way back
My way back, way back

And my mind's the only thing
That's touched my skin
When summer burned me
/2x

I'm finally sleeping and the white noise
From my TV is filling in my head
I leave my teeth turn cold
I've been growing but I was
In 2 weeks, in 2 months instead
/2x