

Dianne, Unleash the Siren

Viator peraudax provoca timores.

Oh breath don't fail me now, my heart beats firm and proud.
Oh feet dare carry me towards a calm shore.
Oh eyes would you deny a shadow does reside
in warring winds and in the landscape of my mind.

Darkness gently takes my hand,
guides me towards desolate lands,
gloats while whispering his commands.

Sing forth, unleash the siren.
Wild soul, soar and obey.
Bow down, no more defiance, all your cries will be futile.
Sing forth, unleash the siren.
Wild soul, or burn at the stake.
Bow down, dance on the pyre. Crucified! Erased!

Oh stand my ground, be soulward bound.

Once upon a darkened night, pure evil shone his light:
"Sing forth, you worthless witch, or face your own demise".

Claws ensnare my weakened voice,
tightening slowly with his words,
douse my flame without remorse.

Sing forth, unleash the siren.
Wild soul, soar and obey.
Bow down, no more defiance, all your cries will be futile.
Sing forth, unleash the siren.
Wild soul, or burn at the stake.
Bow down, dance on the pyre. Crucified! Erased!

Ah! Maleficence is here.
Ah! In eerie nights and waking dreams.

Viator peraudax provoca timores.

Delius hum Vader dixit: Indigna
Delius hum Vader dixit: Obdura
Delius hum Vader dixit: Te perdam
Delius hum Vader dixit: Te deferam

Sing forth, unleash the siren.
Wild soul, soar and obey.
Bow down, no more defiance. Crucified! Erased!

Thou hast, unleashed the siren.
Behold, I will prevail.
Go forth, build your own pyre, all your cries will be futile.
Thou will, face your own demons.
Behold, hellfire awaits.
None shall delude the devil. Crucified! Erased!