

Die Arzte, You want to kiss me

I was on my way, you see, to the public library,
to get the book with seven seals.
Suddenly I saw your face. I had to slow down my pace.
I felt in love and head over heels.
When can we meet again? I heard myself said,
and your answer was: "Tonight would be ok."
With candlelight and Rachmaninov,
you wanted to denude me, but all I want is love.
You want to kiss me, so this is my farewell.
You should have know I'm an Intellectual.
You want to kiss me, so I will go,
cause if you love me I'll never know.
I'll never know, I'll never know...
A year had passed, in January I met you at the library.
You said, you're studying as well.
We made a date at the seven hour, and I even took a shower.
Only in order to impress you with my smell.
When you arrived we had a discussion,
about common profanities in Russian.
From then till the night I looked through your lies.
You are still the same, a devil in disguise.
You want to kiss me, so this is my farewell.
You should have know I'm an Intellectual.
You want to kiss me, so I will go,
cause if you love me I'll never know.
I'll never know, I'll never know...
You want to kiss me, so this is my farewell.
You should have know I'm an Intellectual.
You want to kiss me, so I will go,
'cause if you love me I'll never know
'cause if you love me I'll never know
