

Diesel Boy, Chandeliers And Souvenirs

You used to sing to me
Threw fits of irony
Before the war between the Spanish and Americans
You used to wear my clothes
And read to me from those
Old high school yearbooks that you found at your garage sale
Black and white movies on your TV
Madonna records on the floor
But these things are reruns now
Forced to play forever in my head