

Diesel Machine, Borrowed Time you can't change people with your fist for you I'll make an exception you will be the example forever change your perception it seems you've made this a habit and now it's time for me to break I've got what you've been asking for and now it's time for you to take you will run and I will find now you live on borrowed time....

to make amends and be forgiven means more than you'll ever know your words have come back to haunt you tolerance fades as anger grows just remember when you're scared and you've got nowhere left to go mercy is something unknown to one who smiles when breaking bones - YOUR BONES

you will run and I will find
now you live on borrowed time....

lies + anger + hate = pain

you will run and I will find
now you live on borrowed time....