

Diffuser, Nothing Left To Say

Stand up put some weight in your back bone stuck in the middle of an emotional overload your feeling lost in a breakdown driving in circles till you never can gain control so this how you remind me of what i said to you before it all fell apart its not the end of a moment we never had a start

I dont wanna end this way but theres nothing left to say echoes disapear and fade i've made up my mind im leaving tonight(x2)

its tough to make it what it cannot be polish a penny but it never shines like true gold id be a fool to believe you i know the story but the phrases have not been told the colors have already faded you paint it black and white with traces of blue and grey you gave it up for the big man and this is how you pay chorus x3

im leaving tonight