

Digimon, My Tomorrow (English)

Come on, this time let's run to a place not on any map
There's nothing to be afraid of

A small breast, filled only with courage
Alone in the rain
My pockets are empty, but
I'm only looking ahead

I knock on the door of the unknown and advance, advance
To the other side of the world, I won't waver any longer

Come on, this time let's run to a place not on any map
There's nothing to be afraid of
Now is the only time to build tomorrow
Take off to my distant tomorrow

The wind blows through between the buildings
A night when even the stars have disappeared
My clasped hands are trembling, but
I'm looking up at the sky

In the flow of time I grasp, grasp
What I really want, without hesitation

The day will come when I am enfolded by an invisible brilliance
Surely, surely I'll be able to change

Come on, this time let's run on this road we've chosen
I don't want something that just looks similar
I am the only one to build the future
Awake to my new tomorrow

This time let's run on this road we've chosen
I don't want something that just looks similar
I am the only one to build the future
Awake to my new tomorrow