

Dillinger Four, Somewhere South Of Respect

there was never a reason for what i saw that night another senseless division another fight mister can you please tell me how did we ever get this way he was minding his business not doing nothing wrong five policeman worked him till he was gone how did we ever let it get this way tradition always wins the game i try to move past and wonder if you care i know that you see it but you just stand there how can we look each other in the face every day shit happens we can't erase the only way to protect yourself is by protecting everyone
